
Each point averages actual eligible samples; neighboring layers can contain different stations (Fig. 1).

Lines are visual guides. These are sampled layer means, without area weighting or fixed spatial support.